LIBF Speaker

Veronique Chapeland is an expert in financial markets, investment management, CSR, corporate governance, and extra-financial rating. She holds a Master's degree in international business, an Advanced Master's degree in banking and finance and an Executive MBA in CSR Management and Organisational Performance. She is also ISO 50001 certified for energy management and efficiency.

She has worked for rating agencies, banks, and multinational companies for more than 17 years. Her vision is to work from a trans-disciplinary perspective, bringing together governments, businesses, scientists and local communities to build sustainable solutions through targeted investment and sustainable development projects. Veronique is initiating a research project, which focuses on conservation finance and natural capital issues for central banks. Her ultimate goal is to raise awareness of the complex challenges facing our planet and design innovative and applied solutions for a more sustainable future.
